HEALTH COMMENTS

Very small umbilical hernia, identified by breeder at 7 weeks. Hernia not visible often and protrudes about 50% of the time or less. 0.5cm OR LESS approximated and abdominal walls are very supportive. There is a good chance that this will not need any correction as it is very very minor. Should correction be recommended, please do so during time of neuter to reduce surgical risks associated with a second procedure/anesthesia. Hernia is not impacting puppy in any way at this time.

Final price reduced to reflect hernia
